As The Editor Sees It.

Here it is again—but we've had it before.

"America should have a great merchant marine," say the inspired writers. "Our goods should be carried to foreign countries in our own ships," they contend.

But how is this to be brought about?

Simple, very simple—subsidize the shipping interests.

That's the way the inspired put it, and it's the way the uninspired don't want it just now.

We don't know much about shipping, but we do know a mately a million members of the "invisible empire" in the United States, and that represents a million votes at election time.

And nobody knows who the rank and file are.

The great majority of the people in this country belong to neither faction. They are doing little talking, but much thinking. Some day they, too, will be heard—at the ballot.

It disturbs our dear senators and congressmen to realize that they don't know which way these thinkers will jump—or vote.

Really, it is very trying—to politicians. It's enough to make an ordinary congressman wriggle and squirm. Even a dignified senator is justified in feeling peeved.

Poor devils! No doubt they sympathize with each other.

But who wouldn't?

Better Streets Make Happier Homes

It is too late in the season now to think of permanent street improvements this year, but it is not too late to continue the value of such action next spring.

When we mention new sidewalks or improved streets the average tax payer begins to figure what the cost will be to him individually. That accounts for the prompt action of many people.

But let us consider another line of thought, one single line which ought to turn every opponent into a staunch advocate of street improvement.

Are you married? If so, why did you marry? Because you found "the one girl in the world." At the altar you promised to love, cherish and protect her through life.

The mud from unpaved or dirty streets is tracked into your home and smeared over the floors. This doesn't worry you very much, because you don't have to mop up those floors. But the wife does do the cleaning—or most of them do. It means extra work for her—much extra work—this constant sweeping and scrubbing in order to keep the floors presentable each day.

Is this protecting "the one girl in the world?"

If it were not for the constant stream of mud being tracked into the house each day in rainy weather she would be relieved of much of the work that gives her "that tired feeling" and takes the roses from her cheeks. And if the streets were paved an kept clean they would be free from the mud that causes so many weary hours of toil.

The winter months will give plenty of time for thinking this matter over from the standpoint of the woman who makes your home life what it is.

It will give you an opportunity to do your part toward making her life better than what it is.

There are more important things to be considered than the mere piling up of dollars and cents.

The wife is the most important of all.

Who Makes This Town?

It isn't any one man, or any half dozen, or dozen. It is every person in the town, as well as those who make a practice of coming to the town.

We have citizens who are so modest and retiring that they imagine their influence is of no value, or has no weight—that it makes no difference to the town what they do or do not do.

They are mistaken.

We have become so accustomed to the progressive citizen that we expect to hear from him on any subject of any importance. We would be more or less nonplussed if he did not come to the front.

But it is the action of the quiet and retiring element that adds impetus and puts real life into a movement for civic improvement. They may not assume to be leaders, but when they get behind and push the weight is so great is no such thing as a premature halt.

Little wavelets lapping upon the seashore always precede the great tidal wave that sweeps everything before it.

It is so in community life. In each community there are a few who are always promptly active in every good movement. They are the little waves that never rest, that are ever creeping upon the beach, advancing and receding, incessantly on the move until they create the great wave of public sentiment that moves irresistibly on to victory and achievement.

It is the mass of quiet citizens who constitute the bulk of that public sentiment. It is the citizen who possibly thinks that his own individual opinion has but little influence upon community life. It is the one who acts after others have talked.

You, therefore, are one of the number who make this town.

You are expected to aid in making it even a better town.

You can do it, if you will.

Join the Chamber of Commerce should be your first step.

HIGH SCHOOL DEFEATED Capt. Cox Back In The Game.

Lancaster High School went down in defeat at the hands of the Nicholasville team last Friday afternoon on the local gridiron by the score of 7 to 0. This game was without question one of the hardest fought foot ball games ever played on the local grounds and is the first time that the High School has suffered a defeat at home in two years. Capt. Cox was back in the lineup much to the gratification of the many admirers of the game and played a good game considering that he has been out for two weeks suffering with an injury received in the Richmond game.

Nicholasville has a good strong team and showed that they had good coaching and played a good strong game of ball, the one play that they had the shift and run their plays thru what is called an off tackle was a credit to a college team, the score would have been different, to say the least it would have been a tie game had the Lancaster High School had her regular line up, as three of her best line players were not eligible to play in this game. The visitors having Capt. Cox team outweighed the subs that he was compelled to use under the circumstances weakened his team at least 40 per cent. Nicholasville made her touchdown in the second quarter with line plunges.

Following is the line up for the High School team for Friday's game: Bratton, C.; Elliott and Cox, Guards; Moore, Aldridge and Gastineau, Tackles; Lawson and Sanders ends, with Anderson, Cochran, Cox, (Capt.) W. Robinson and Crutchfield looking after the backfield.

Time of Quarters 15 and 12 1/2 Minutes.

Umpire—Dr. Pearson.

Referee—Miller.

Head Linesman—Wilmot and Jones.

That Foot Ball Game.

The Lancaster High School Foot Ball team played a wonder game last Friday afternoon even if she was defeated, but, had the local lads had their regular lineup and had all the boys made their studies so that the captain of the team could have picked his regular eleven we dare say that the game would have ended with victory for L. H. S.

Captain Cox, the foot ball fan of

WE SELL BETTER GROCERIES AT LOWER PRICES.

Housewives are wise. They make the rounds of the stores in order to locate the one that sells the best groceries at the lowest prices.

Just note our large list of steady customers. They have made the rounds and are back again. Doesn't that tell you the whole story?

TOO GOOD TO MISS.

We want to emphasize the quality of our meats. There is no chance to spoil a good meal when serving our meats.

Currey & Gulley.

Lancaster have demonstrated to you that they want to see you lead a great team this year the same as Clyde Holtzclaw lead his team to victory last year, but, you cannot do it unless you impress upon the boys that they must first go to school, have their studies up and then act like gentlemen while in school and we dare predict that your team can take the scalp of every team that you play this season.

Boys, you owe it to your coaches, the Lancaster fans, and yourself to make this team and the parents of these boys should feel proud of their sons when they see them in the uniform that represents L. H. S., because you may rest assured that they are making their grades, and are eligible to play the great fall game.

The Record has always been behind the boys and will continue to do so and these suggestions that are friendly on our part we sincerely ask that you take them the same way. We would also like to suggest to the officials of the game, (and we appreciate that you have a very unappreciative job) that you keep the crowd off the field and do not let them interfere with the game. Now high school students, let's not lose a single game from this date and never let what happened in the game Friday occur again, that is some of the boys not being eligible to play.

The only explanation of Tanlac's great success is Tanlac's true worth. (It.) Storms Drug Store.
